Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless --

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 36, 37, 46-50, 52-63 and 71-73 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Nomura et al. Nomura et al, in the embodiments of either the claims or at table 1 for example, teach immersion nozzles and methods of casting steel including refractorics with some desulphurization ability meeting the requirements of the instant claims.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 36-39, 42-74 and 77-80 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Nomura et al in view of Kato et al and Hattanda et al. As applied to claim 36 above, Nomura et al shows all aspects of the above claims except the inclusion of a powdered metal interior of the immersion nozzle or the introduction of gaseous Ar for the desulphurization of the molten steel. Kato et al teaches that it was known in the art at the time the invention was made to both introduce an inert gas and metallic Ca into the molten steel within the immersion nozzle for reduced clogging (see col. 1 lines 40-60 for example). Hattanda et al teaches that it was known in the art at the time the invention was made to employ Ar gas as an injection gas for injection into immersion nozzles. Because Nomura et al also desires reduced clogging in it's immersion nozzle, motivation to employ the powdered Ca metal and injected Ar gas of each of Kato et al and Hattanda et al in the system of Nomura et al, would have been modifications obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claim 76 is allowed at least because none of the cited or applied prior art shows or fairly suggests the step of injecting Mg, Ca, Mn or Ce gas into an immersion nozzle during a continuous casting process.

Claims 40, 41 and 75 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims at least for the reasons given with respect to claim 76 above.
